

Revolution IT acquires QualTech International

Dear Customer,

I am pleased to formally announce the acquisition of QualTech International by Revolution IT, which took effect from 21st of September 2007. We have investigated and undertaken this action, as we believe it is in the best interests of both our Clients and Employees. The combined entity will represent the foremost Software Testing Consulting company in the Australasian market. In particular, we see the following key benefits to all of our clients:

- ✓Larger pool of talented resources,
- ✓Our ability to deliver has increased in all areas of testing, from short to longer term requirements across the Software Development Life Cycle.
- ✓An increased ability to provide HP Product solutions directly, and combine these with appropriately customised service offerings, including an increased training capability.
- ✓Stronger company backing – Revolution IT was the 6th fastest growing IT Company as assessed by BRW in 2006/7
- ✓Ability to deliver complementary services outside of testing in the area of Project Management and Governance.

One of our key requirements moving forward is to ensure minimum disruption to client activities, and for all intent and purposes, all existing and already scheduled engagements will continue without change.

Both QualTech Directors, Gregory T. Bowler and Ivan Maclaine, will be staying on with Revolution IT, and we look forward to continuing to provide the best service to our clients with our continuing commitment to our craft of Software Testing.

Best regards,

Gregory T. Bowler

For more information on Revolution IT, please go to www.revolutionit.com.au